LONG WAIT ON RUSSIAN LOAN

Kremlin Not Expected To Get Action British Loan Received

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 15.—Russia probably will have to wait until next year at least for a loan even a fraction of the size of the $3,750,000,000 credit congress okayed Saturday for Britain.

The Kremlin reportedly is interested in borrowing about $1,000,000,000 from this country.

Little has been heard of a Russian loan since the United States some months ago notified Moscow of a willingness to discuss it—provided Russia would agree to talk at the same time about her sphere of influence.

Any such loan would have to come through the Export-Import bank, unlike the one to Britain which was approved by Congress.

Only President Truman's signature is needed before London can start drawing on the money, in return for which the British have promised to work for free world trade. The loan is to be repaid by the year 2001.

The British credit will come directly from the United States treasury, but any money Moscow might get would be from the Export-Import bank—a government agency with considerably less than $1,000,000,000 left in its till.

Russia figured prominently in the British loan debate. Proponents argued that the credit would establish Britain as a bulwark against the spread of Communism.

Whether the administration will ask for an increase in the bank's money will be decided by the National Advisory Council, comprised of the secretaries of state, treasury, commerce and other agencies dealing with foreign questions. The council may meet this week.

During house banking committee hearing on the British loan, administration spokesmen indicated that the request would be for $1,250,000,000.

Steel Mills Humming

YOUNGSTOWN, July 15.—Machining valley steel producers, with a record backlog of orders, today issued a call for more workers as they announced present production was falling to reach the rate needed to supply automobile and appliance makers. Workers are needed in the "hot departments," the producers said.

JayTeen Activities For Summer Planned By Recreation Head

A diversified summer program is being planned for JayTeen, according to Emma Bauman, newly-appointed recreational director.

Among the events scheduled for the near future are: A dance at the JayTeen center in the Arbuckle building, Friday, July 19; a ping-pong tournament, to begin on July 24; a checker tournament, and a demonstration by a beautician on make-up and hair styles for the girls on July 24.

A fashion show will be held Aug. 2.

Miss Bauman announced that she is seeking all available volunteer teen-age workers to help in decorating, cleaning and painting the center. It is requested that those who wish to help, report at the center after 9 a. m. on the afternoon or evening on Tuesday.

Plans also are going forward at the JayTeen for the Junior Chamber of Commerce's "Youth week" planned in August.

All representatives of city clubs are to meet at the center at 8 p. m. Tuesday to officially organize a student council.

Broadway Limited Derailment In One Of Two Week-End Accidents

(By Associated Press)
LEWISTOWN, Pa., July 15.—Two train wrecks, one on the Pennsylvania railroad's main east-west line and another 12 hours later on a spur route being used as a detour, collectively injured 26 persons—but none fatally.

Twenty-three suffered burns and lacerations in the wreck of a Broadway Limited train at Lewisport, five miles east of Harrisburg, Saturday night.

The remaining three were hurt yesterday morning in the second mishap near Tipton, more than 50 miles westward where the Red Arrow smashed into the Cleveland.

Two locomotives and five coaches of the 16-car Broadway Limited jumped the tracks and ploughed into piles of coal that had spilled over the roadbed just a few seconds earlier from a derailed freight train.

As wrecking crews labored to remove the debris, railroad officials rerouted the busy traffic over the Bald Eagle branch from Harrisburg to Lock Haven to Tipton to Tyrone, where trains rejoined the main line.

Running 12 hours late because of the detour, the Diesel-driven Red Arrow, coming from New York, rammed into the slower-moving Cleveland, also westbound.

A spokesman for the railroad said the cause of the collision of the two derailed trains had not yet been determined. The three injured passengers were taken to Altoona hospital for treatment.

ELECT. FURNACE CO. PROJECT APPROVED
Commercial and industrial construction authorized by the civilian production administration in the Cleveland area last week reached the lowest level since the opening of the CPA office, District Manager Glen W. Thompson said today.

Twenty-seven applications for construction totaling only $439,161 were approved. An equal number of applications, for projects with total estimated value of $2,434,199, were denied.

Projects authorized last week and grounds for their approval included: SALEM—Electric Furnace Co., engineering office space, $20,000; no impact on veterans' housing.

HOUSE FIGHT ON OPA BILL DUE TUESDAY

President Declares New Measure "Couldn't Be Any Worse"

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 15.—OPA's friends and foes in the house sharpened their legislative sabers today over a duel over the price control revival bill which President Truman declared "couldn't be any worse."

The chief executive's wry comment on the senate-passed measure added the strongest hint yet that a second veto is in the offing unless something more to the administration's liking can be worked out by a joint committee of the two chambers.

Barring a last-minute change in plans the first test will take place on the house floor tomorrow.

The issue—with each side confident of victory—is whether any controls at all shall be clamped back on a dozen or more items in legislation to breathe new life into OPA until next June 30.

Items Excluded
The senate, by top-heavy majorities, ordered these things kept free of any future price ceilings: Meat, poultry, eggs, milk, butter, cheese and all other livestock and dairy products; cottonseed, soybeans and their products; grain and feedstuffs; tobacco products and gasoline and other petroleum products, so long as oil supplies do not drop below domestic demand.

It undoubtedly was this list of exemptions that prompted Mr. Truman to say the OPA bill "is in terrible shape" and "couldn't be any worse."

He used those phrases in reporting on the status of price controls to Secretary of State Byrnes and Senators Connally (D-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) upon their return yesterday from the European ministers' conference.

The measure as it emerged from the senate early Saturday was a substitute for the OPA bill Mr. Truman vetoed on June 29 as an "impossible" piece of legislation.

However, a formidable group of Republicans who claim some Democratic support want to accept the senate bill "as-is."

The only OPA bill the house has passed since the agency died July 1 was one to extend all price controls for 20 days, without change.

New Veto Foreseen
Administration leaders, hopeful of rewriting the measure almost completely, want the bill sent to conference.

Some said privately it would be vetoed if it reaches the White House in its present form.

Three courses lie open for the house when it votes tomorrow: 1. It may send the senate bill directly to the White House.

2. It may simply send the bill to conference without specific recommendations, or 3. It may send it to conference, with instructions to fight against some of the senate proposals and to accept others.

MILK PRICE GOES UP 2 CENTS QUART
The increased cost of milk to consumers will merely bring the "hidden taxes" the public has been paying on milk out into the open, John A. Resek, district manager of the Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association, said today.

Resek stated that the district milk producers voted today to increase their price on milk to dealers 67½¢ per 100 pounds in order to cover the loss of government subsidy paid in that amount.

This will result in a retail hike on milk of two cents per quart.

Resek added that, despite this price, the district is still behind other areas in milk prices. He cited Pittsburgh, with a three-cent raise, Philadelphia, with an advance of five cents, and most of the seaboard districts, which have increased prices from four to five cents per quart.

FIREARMS COUNT IS PLACED AGAINST EX-CHIEF; ACTION BY GRAND JURY WILL BE ASKED

Criminal charges against Salem's former chief of police, Ralph N. Stoffer, were filed in the Portage county common pleas court at Ravenna today by Portage County Prosecutor Seabury H. Ford, resulting from an investigation of Stoffer's misconduct when he "shot up" Deerfield village early the morning of May 30.

In bills of information filed in the Portage county court this morning, Stoffer is charged with "having discharged firearms pertinent to a church or inhabited dwelling and upon and over a public highway" and also with "pointing and aiming a firearm at one Claude Thomas, proprietor of a restaurant."

Ex-Chief Stoffer failed to appear in court with his attorney this morning and Prosecutor Ford threatened to swear out a warrant for Stoffer's arrest.

Prosecutor Ford declared this morning that in addition to the charges placed against the former Salem police official, the Portage county grand jury would be asked to indict Stoffer on charges of assault with intent to kill and carrying a machinegun.

Stoffer's arraignment now is expected to be made Tuesday before Judge Blake C. Cook in the common pleas court at Ravenna.

Citizens Write Protest Letters
Prosecutor Ford, who came to Salem three days ago to gather more detailed information on the May 30 shooting episode in which Stoffer was involved, admitted that the delayed action came as a result of a flood of indignant letters to his office from Salem people.

The charges are the result of an alleged shooting episode in Deerfield Memorial day morning when Stoffer entered the Claude Thomas restaurant, threatened the proprietor with a .38 calibre pistol, belonging to the city of Salem, and then pursued a waitress, Mrs. Ida Pilmer, formerly of Salem, out the back door of the restaurant, firing two blasts of about 12 bullets from a sub-machine gun, also owned by the city of Salem.

Stoffer was met in the alley at the rear of the restaurant by two portage county deputies, Darwin Kaser and Stephen B. Eckman, who were just rounding the village square in answer to an earlier call placed by the proprietor who told deputies he had sensed trouble when Stoffer entered the place.

Shot In Right Leg
The deputies ordered Stoffer to halt as he chased the woman and when he brandished the machinegun they fired at him, they said, striking him at least four times in the thigh of the right leg as he hid behind a tree near the restaurant.

After he had fled to another tree, one deputy circled the area and came from behind to capture the former Salem chief as he slumped to the ground wounded, according to statements made by the deputies.

Stoffer was taken to Robinson Memorial hospital, Ravenna, and treated for his wounds. He was discharged from the hospital the following afternoon, returning to Salem.

No charges were filed against the former chief by Portage county authorities until today. At first they refused to release a report on the shooting to the newspapers, but later released statements made by the deputies.

Resigned June 1
The following day, June 1, Mayor R. R. Johnson filed a letter with the Civil Service commission discharging Stoffer from the police force for "inefficiency and incompetency in office, neglect of duty and for conduct unbecoming to an officer and for failure of good behavior."

In turn, Stoffer submitted his resignation as police chief and it was immediately accepted by the mayor.

As a consequence of the resignation the charges by the mayor, filed with the commission, were withdrawn.

The chief's request for a $50-a-month pension was considered by the police pension board Friday night, but action was deferred until Aug. 12. Meanwhile, the plea is being studied by a claims committee of the board.

The criminal charges filed today against Stoffer may keep him from obtaining the pension.

THIEVES PAY VISIT TO STORE AND HOME
Thieves ransacked the home of Patsy Ciminelli, 332 N. Broadway, sometime Sunday, stealing personal property worth $120. The loot included a camera and two women's rings.

Entrance was gained by prying open a kitchen window, police said. Walter Strain reported that a brown double-breasted suit had been stolen from his store on E. State St. sometime Saturday.

Another theft, that of a boy's bicycle, was reported by Mrs. George K. Glassford of 656 Ohio ave. The "bike" was stolen from in front of the residence.

Groza Claims U.S. Meddles In Romania

Prime Minister Expresses Views To Associated Press Writer

(Frank O'Brien, Associated Press correspondent at Bucharest, is en route home from Romania. The following is his report on an interview with Prime Minister Petre Groza, obtained just before he left.)

BY FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer
The prime minister of Romania's Communist-dominated, Russian-backed government, Petre Groza, says that Romania "definitely" will have elections by mid-September, as the U. S. desires.

At the same time, in an interview with the Associated Press, Groza accused the United States of interference in Romanian internal affairs. He cited intervention of U. S. military officers and enlisted men to prevent the arrest of a Romanian employee of the U. S. military mission.

Groza said that the Romanian secret police who tried to arrest the employee and who did arrest the two other who were working in confidential capacities with the U. S. missions, did not know that they were employed by the U. S. Groza gave this as his reason for not notifying U. S. authorities that the arrests were contemplated.

Washington Support
American officials in Romania say that they have received Washington support for their action in protecting other employees from similar arrest until evidence against them is presented, and on condition that they be questioned in the presence of U. S. observers. This request has been made and refused by the Romanian government.

Groza declared that the chief opposition party, the National Peasant party led by 74-year-old nationalist Iuliu Maniu, is involved in what he described as a plot against his government and Russia.

"Maniu is too cautious to be involved by direct evidence," Groza said.

CRIMINAL CHARGES FILED AGAINST STOFFER

Gen. Mihailovic, Ten Followers Must Die Before Firing Squad

BELGRADE, July 15.—Gen. Draža Mihailovic, former Chetnik leader and 10 of his 23 co-defendants were convicted today by a Yugoslav military court on charges of collaborating with the Germans and were sentenced to die before firing squads. The trial was marked by the refusal of the Yugoslav government to permit the testimony of U. S. officers who were forced down in Yugoslavia during the war and who were ready to swear that they owed their lives to him. Prison sentences ranging downward to 18 months were imposed on the remaining defendants. It was not immediately announced how soon the death sentences would be carried out. Two of those sentenced to die were tried and convicted in absentia.

Others Sentenced

Sentenced to be shot with Mihailovic were: Redoslav Rade Radich, 56-year-old former commander of the Bratislav Chetnik unit. Milos Glisch, 36-year-old Chetnik leader. Oskar Pavlovich, 54, former Zagreb police chief.

Dragi Yovanovich, 44, former Belgrade police chief. Tanase-Tasa Dinitch, 55, former minister of the interior in the puppet government of Milan Nedich, who told the court: "I don't want to live after the crimes I have committed."

Velimir Yonich, 54, minister of education in the Nedich government. Peter Zhivkovich, former Yugoslav general sentenced in absentia. Djuro Dokich, 72, former commerce minister accused of conspiring for forced shipment of workers into Germany.

Kosta Musicki, 49, former aide de camp to King Peter and Queen Mary.

Mladen Zujeich, 51, former Chetnik commander believed to be in Paris and sentenced in absentia. Among those receiving prison sentences was Konstantin Potich, former Yugoslav ambassador to the United States, who was sentenced in absentia to 20 years.

Veteran Career Officer

Mihailovic was a veteran career officer. When the Balkan war broke out in 1912 he was a 17-year-old student in a Belgrade military academy, but left school to join the Serbian army in the field. He was promoted to second lieutenant for his service in that campaign and subsequently won high honors in World War I.

After the formation of the state of Yugoslavia, Mihailovic joined the royal guard and became one of the youngest majors in the army.

When Germany invaded Yugoslavia in April, 1941, Mihailovic was serving as a regimental commander. With the flight of the government he retired into mountain fastnesses where he gradually rallied a band of followers.

He was soon recognized by exiled King Peter as the leader of the Yugoslav resistance movement, and reports of his exploits against the Germans raised him to the role of hero in Allied countries.

Salem Man's Bonds Stolen By Chicago Murder Suspect

Heitens

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 15.—Speculation that important developments may be pending in the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-murder case continued today following an unusual conference Sunday between State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and counsel for William Heitens, 17-year-old university of Chicago student.

Neither Tuohy or Heitens' lawyers, John P. and Malachy Coghlan, would comment on the two and one-half hour session, which was summoned at the Cook County Jail.

Heitens, who is scheduled for arraignment tomorrow on 29 charges of burglary, robbery and assault with intent to kill, was connected with the Degnan case—has denied slaying six-year-old Suzanne last June.

Tuohy has declared that Heitens' finger and palm prints match those on the Degnan ransom note, and that the youth's finger print was identical with a partial print found in a North Side apartment where Frances Brown, 35-year-old former Wave, was shot and stabbed about three weeks before the Degnan child was strangled from her bed, strangled and dismembered.

Stole Salem Man's Bonds

Meanwhile guards at the county jail, where Heitens is being held in default of bonds totaling $290,000, suddenly became reticent as to the youth's activities and condition. Although they previously had given detailed answers to all questions about their prisoner, they merely told reporters yesterday that Heitens was "all right" and declined to elaborate.

Howard S. Dodge of Salem, O., was expected to file a 30th charge against Heitens.

Capt. Michel Ahern of the Rogers park police station said Dodge would sign a complaint against Heitens in the theft of five $25 war bonds.

The bonds were stolen Jan. 28, 1945, from Heitens' room in the Rogers Park hotel and later were found in an unattended station locker.

MILK PRICE GOES UP 2 CENTS QUART

The increased cost of milk to consumers will merely bring the "hidden taxes" the public has been paying on milk out into the open, John A. Resek, district manager of the Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association, said today.

Resek stated that the district milk producers voted today to increase their price on milk to dealers 67¢ per 100 pounds in order to cover the loss of government subsidy paid in that amount.

This will result in a retail hike on milk of two cents per quart.

Resek added that, despite this price, the district is still behind other areas in milk prices. He cited Pittsburgh, with a three-cent raise, Philadelphia, with an advance of five cents, and most of the seaboard districts, which have increased prices from four to five cents per quart.

FIREARMS COUNT IS PLACED AGAINST EX-CHIEF; ACTION BY GRAND JURY WILL BE ASKED

Criminal Charges Against Salem's Former Chief of Police, Ralph N. Stoffer, Were Filed in the Portage County Common Pleas Court at Ravenna Today by Portage County Prosecutor Seabury H. Ford, Resulting from an Investigation of Stoffer's Misconduct When He "Shot Up" Deerfield Village Early the Morning of May 30.

In bills of information filed in the Portage county court this morning, Stoffer is charged with "having discharged firearms pertinent to a church or inhabited dwelling and upon and over a public highway" and also with "pointing and aiming a firearm at one Claude Thomas, proprietor of a restaurant."

Ex-Chief Stoffer failed to appear in court with his attorney this morning and Prosecutor Ford threatened to swear out a warrant for Stoffer's arrest.

Prosecutor Ford declared this morning that in addition to the charges placed against the former Salem police official, the Portage county grand jury would be asked to indict Stoffer on charges of assault with intent to kill and carrying a machinegun.

Stoffer's arraignment now is expected to be made Tuesday before Judge Blake C. Cook in the common pleas court at Ravenna.

Citizens Write Protest Letters

Prosecutor Ford, who came to Salem three days ago to gather more detailed information on the May 30 shooting episode in which Stoffer was involved, admitted that the delayed action came as a result of a flood of indignant letters to his office from Salem people.

The charges are the result of an alleged shooting episode in Deerfield Memorial day morning when Stoffer entered the Claude Thomas restaurant, threatened the proprietor with a .38 calibre pistol, belonging to the city of Salem, and then pursued a waitress, Mrs. Ida Pilmer, formerly of Salem, out the back door of the restaurant, firing two blasts of about 12 bullets from a sub-machine gun, also owned by the city of Salem.

Stoffer was met in the alley at the rear of the restaurant by two Portage County deputies, Darwin Foster and Stephen B. Eckman, who were just rounding the village square in answer to an earlier call placed by the proprietor who told deputies he had sensed trouble when Stoffer entered the place.

Shot in Right Leg

The deputies ordered Stoffer to halt as he chased the woman and when he brandished the machinegun they fired at him, they said, striking him at least four times in the thigh of the right leg as he hid behind a tree near the restaurant.

After he had fled to another tree, one deputy climbed the area and came from behind to capture the former Salem chief as he slumped to the ground wounded, according to statements made by the deputies.

Stoffer was taken to Robinson Memorial hospital, Ravenna, and treated for his wounds. He was discharged from the hospital the following afternoon, returning to Salem.

No charges were filed against the former chief by Portage county authorities until today. At first they refused to release a report on the shooting to the newspapers, but later released statements made by the deputies.

Resigned June 1

The following day, June 1, Mayor R. R. Johnson filed a letter with the Civil Service commission discharging Stoffer from the police force for "inefficiency and incompetency in office, neglect of duty and for conduct unbecoming to an officer and for failure of good behavior."

In turn, Stoffer submitted his resignation as police chief and it was immediately accepted by the mayor.

As a consequence of the resignation the charges by the mayor, filed with the commission, were withdrawn.

The chief's request for a $50-a-month pension was considered by the police pension board Friday night, but action was deferred until Aug. 12. Meanwhile, the plea is being studied by a claims committee of the board.

The criminal charges filed today against Stoffer may keep him from obtaining the pension.

THIEVES PAY VISIT TO STORE AND HOME

Thieves ransacked the home of Patay Ciminelli, 332 N. Broadway, sometime Sunday, stealing personal property worth $120. The loot included a camera and two women's rings.

Entrance was gained by prying open a kitchen window, police said. Walter Strain reported that a brown double-breasted suit had been stolen from his store on E. State st. sometime Saturday.

Another theft, that of a boy's bicycle, was reported by Mrs. George K. Glassford of 656 Ohio ave. The "bike" was stolen from in front of the residence.

Groza Claims U.S. Meddles In Romania

Prime Minister Expresses Views To Associated Press Writer

(Frank O'Brien, Associated Press correspondent at Bucharest, is en route home from Romania. The following is his report on an interview with Prime Minister Petre Groza, obtained just before he left.)

BY FRANK O'BRIEN Associated Press Writer

The prime minister of Romania's Communist-dominated, Russian-backed government, Petre Groza, says that Romania "definitely" will have elections by mid-September, as the U. S. desires.

At the same time, in an interview with the Associated Press, Groza accused the United States of interference in Romanian internal affairs. He cited intervention of U. S. military officers and enlisted men to prevent the arrest of a Romanian employee of the U. S. military mission.

Groza said that the Romanian secret police who tried to arrest the employee, and who did arrest the two other who were working in confidential capacities with the U. S. mission, did not know that they were employed by the U. S. Groza gave this as his reason for not notifying U. S. authorities that the arrests were contemplated.

Washington Support

American officials in Romania say that they have received Washington support for their action in protecting other employees from similar arrest until evidence against them is presented, and on condition that they be questioned in the presence of U. S. observers. This request has been made and refused by the Romanian government.

Groza declared that the chief opposition party, the National Peasant party led by 74-year-old nationalist Iuliu Maniu, is involved in what he described as a plot against his government and Russia.

"Maniu is too cautious to be involved by direct evidence," Groza said.

Home To Roost

Farmers have warned repeatedly that charging a part of the national grocery bill to the United States treasury—the subsidy plan—was an economic booby trap.

They have objected to a kind of government thinking that made it seem all right to conceal from consumers the real price of the food they bought, then to claim credit for holding down prices.

They have looked ahead to the time when the subsidy system would fold up, leaving them to take the blame for price "increases" representing the transfer from concealed to open payments.

They have reasoned that since farmers themselves were taxpayers, it was unfair to make them pay part of the cost of the agricultural commodities whose sale represented farm income.

They have accused the government of using two economic yardsticks—one for organized labor, whose share of the war boom was paid straight across the board, one for farmers, who were handed part of their share at the side door under cover of darkness.

They have protested that the subsidy system was economically doubtful and morally indefensible and there would be a rude awakening when the public had to bear directly in higher prices what it had been bearing in the form of government grants to producers.

The farmers were right. The subsidy chickens are coming home to roost. Falsehood spreaders helping the price-and-profit control crowd in its last stand are screaming that farmers and handlers of agricultural commodities are boosting prices, whereas the truth is they are now asking consumers to pay directly what they formerly paid in the form of subsidies.

The Great American Obsession

During the late war we Americans spent millions to convince all and sundry we were the most lovable folks alive. Public relations never were worked at any harder. We did everything but nips-ups to get favorable attention, to say nothing of the money we threw around.

We believed our natural charm alone could turn the trick, because to know us was to love us, but we threw in door prizes, Christmas presents and lend-lease baskets to make sure. And what happened was that we probably offended more than we pleased. Those who already had used up their minds not to like Americans were disgusted.

Yet, here is a Miss Pauline E. Mandigo telling the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs that world wars, depressions, strikes, even scarcities are the result of poor public relations. Miss Mandigo believes this. Millions of Americans believe it. They believe it because they are full of good will themselves and can't imagine anyone being full of bad will, instead. Nor can they imagine anyone so tough, angry, determined, or skeptical that he can't be pacified with a drench of good old American public relations.

The great American obsession—that everything would be lovely if we knew each other better—needs to be cooled off with a little realization of what lies behind a very old axiom, that familiarity breeds contempt.

Save The Initials!

Washington will have to forgive us yokels in the hinterlands for wondering why it is going to so much trouble to save OPA. OPA is beyond saving.

The blow that finished it when it was staggering on the brink of oblivion was delivered by President Harry Truman, who put one foot on the seat of its pants and vetoed it over the edge last June 29.

OPA, as a going institution, already had been ruined by Mr. Truman's decision to lift wage controls and his predecessor's policy of boosting prices by inflating the money supply. What was left was being enforced chiefly in the breach. Price control was a mockery, and profit control—which had become OPA's secret weapon—was holding back production. Even profit controllers knew that and wished they could do something about it, though not at the expense of what they were doing.

Mr. Truman took them out of their dilemma. He took everybody out of a dilemma. He booted price and profit control into oblivion by vetoing an attempt to give OPA a short-term lease on a severely restricted life. The fact he didn't intend to do this is of no consequence. Mrs. O'Leary's cow didn't intend to burn down Chicago when she booted the lantern, but it happened—and Chicago was the better for it.

As we say, yokels in the hinterlands are having trouble understanding what the firemen are saving in Washington. They seem to be going to a lot of trouble to rescue a set of initials.

"We Shall Meet Again"

As the United States spokesmen come home from Paris this time, even sadder and wiser than they were on previous homecomings, there is a new public opinion about the difficulties peacemaking has encountered.

It is an opinion that the function of our statesmanship in the future must be to make the best of a bad situation. Previously, public opinion held that the situation itself could be altered—changed somehow for the better.

To that end, the United States had carried over into the peacemaking a policy of compliance and appeasement practiced for Russia's benefit during the war. It's aim, as developed under President Roosevelt, was to break down Russian suspicion of American motives and objectives.

Postwar experience has revealed that the policy never succeeded. The Russian government has continued to challenge virtually everything the United States suggests or practices. It has accused this government of combining with Britain to show hostility toward Russia. It has denied the possibility of reaching that condition of mutual confidence which was the wartime hope of our government.

The question is whether or not this is a certain indication that relations with the Soviet Union will continue to grow worse. Perhaps the answer is implicit in Foreign Minister Bevin's comment at the Paris meeting of foreign ministers adjourned: "We shall meet again at the peace conference."

There has been no real worsening of relations with Russia, only a realization that relations never were based on anything but expediency as far as Russia was concerned. Security is no more remote than it was a year ago, or two years ago. But it will continue to be based on the same realities that kept the Allies together during the war.

The Russian government does not like the government of the United States. It does not like the government of Great Britain. The governments of the United States and Great Britain are under no further obligation to pretend they like the government of Russia. As Americans, we continue to feel kindly toward Russians, however, and we have reason to believe most Russians are being grossly misrepresented by the hostility of their government.

The problem of our diplomacy is to make the best of a bad situation in Russian politics, without in any manner abandoning our hope that the Russian political situation may be improved.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Various Types of Anemia

By HERMAN N. BUNDESSEN, M.D.

IN ALL its complex mechanism, the body has no harder workers than its oxygen-carriers, the tiny red cells of the blood.

Like microscopic beasts of burden, they move endlessly about their work of purification, carrying oxygen from the lungs to remotest tissues and staggering back under equally heavy loads of carbon dioxide waste.

Because the body is large and the red blood cell all but infinitesimal, millions upon tens of millions are required for this work. The power of these red cells to grab, hold and carry oxygen lies in their hemoglobin or red coloring matter. This is their strength and when it is reduced, the cells lose their potency.

Oxygen Power Reduced

Thus, it is apparent that the oxygen-carrying power of the blood may be reduced either by actual loss of a large number of red cells, as in bleeding, or to a lessening of their hemoglobin content due to infection, lack of iron in the diet.

Whatever its cause, this condition is called anemia and usually the most important part of its treatment consists in giving some iron-containing preparation.

Practically all of the body tissues contain some iron, although the liver, the spleen and the bone marrow supply more iron for the formation of red blood cells than do others. Sometimes anemia develops because an abnormal condition of the bone marrow prevents proper utilization of iron.

More often, however, it is due directly to iron deficiency. One type is the hypochromic nutritional anemia of infancy and childhood. If a baby is born before the normal time, it will, at likelihood, not have the normal quantity of iron stored in its tissues.

Rapid growth increases the need for iron, so that even those babies who start out with an adequate supply, need more in the diet. So does the growing child. An infant who receives only milk will not get enough iron. Thus a faulty diet may contribute to anemia in babies and little children.

A second type is called chronic hemorrhagic anemia, which merely means that anemia has occurred from continued bleeding from some source. Obviously, the treatment is to find the source of the bleeding and to eliminate it. The giving of some iron-containing preparation will, of course, aid in blood replacement.

A third type is called achlorhydria, which means lack of acid in the stomach. This type occurs most often in women. In this condition the anemia results from failure to absorb or take up enough iron from the food eaten, because of lack of acid in the stomach.

A fourth type is called hypochromic anemia of pregnancy. During the child-bearing time the mother-to-be must not only have sufficient iron to supply her own needs, but also enough for the baby. A faulty diet and achlorhydria are contributing factors for the development of this condition.

When iron is necessary, it can be satisfactorily administered in practically all cases by mouth, in the form of tablets or a liquid preparation. The liquid preparations are as a rule more satisfactory for children.

It must be remembered that alkaline substances, such as baking soda, may interfere with the absorption of iron. Hence, in anemia the taking of such preparations should be avoided, if possible.

The doctor will decide what type of anemia is present, and what treatment should be employed for it, particularly the type of iron preparation to use.

Billion Dollar WHEELS

Farm wheels like these, turning to feed America and hungry nations, are truly billion dollar wheels. In Ohio alone, farms have a seven hundred million dollar share in America's farm production, which last year yielded a gross income of twenty billion dollars to the nation's farms. We recognize how vital telephone service is to you now in accomplishing your part of this big job. That's why we are making an especially great effort to furnish adequate rural telephone service to every farm in our area, in the shortest possible time.

Evidences of our progress are the 9500 new rural telephones installed this year; almost four times the number connected during the same period in 1945. This is typical of the way we are working to provide telephone service for Ohio's farms.

Home To Roost

Farmers have warned repeatedly that charging a part of the national grocery bill to the United States treasury—the subsidy plan—was an economic booby trap.

They have objected to a kind of government thinking that made it seem all right to conceal from consumers the real price of the food they bought, then to claim credit for holding down prices.

They have looked ahead to the time when the subsidy system would fold up, leaving them to take the blame for price "increases" representing the transfer from concealed to open payments.

They have reasoned that since farmers themselves were taxpayers, it was unfair to make them pay part of the cost of the agricultural commodities whose sale represented farm income.

They have accused the government of using two economic yardsticks—one for organized labor, whose share of the war boom was paid straight across the board, one for farmers, who were handed part of their share at the side door under cover of darkness.

They have protested that the subsidy system was economically doubtful and morally indefensible and there would be a rude awakening when the public had to bear directly in higher prices what it had been bearing in the form of government grants to producers.

The farmers were right. The subsidy chickens are coming home to roost. Falsehood spreaders helping the price-and-profit control crowd in its last stand are screaming that farmers and handlers of agricultural commodities are boosting prices, whereas the truth is they are now asking consumers to pay directly what they formerly paid in the form of subsidies.

The Great American Obsession

During the late war we Americans spent millions to convince all and sundry we were the most lovable folks alive. Public relations never were worked at any harder. We did everything but nips-ups to get favorable attention, to say nothing of the money we threw around.

We believed our natural charm alone could turn the trick, because to know us was to love us, but we threw in door prizes, Christmas presents and leak-leak baskets to make sure. And what happened was that we probably offended more than we pleased. Those who already had made up their minds not to like Americans were disgusted.

Yet, here is a Miss Pauline E. Mandigo telling the convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs that world wars, depressions, strikes, even scarcities are the result of poor public relations. Miss Mandigo believes this. Millions of Americans believe it. They believe it because they are full of good will themselves and can't imagine anyone being full of bad will, instead. Nor can they imagine anyone so tough, angry, determined, or skeptical that he can't be pacified with a drench of good old American public relations.

The great American obsession—that everything would be lovely if we knew each other better—needs to be cooled off with a little realization of what lies behind a very old axiom, that familiarity breeds contempt.

Save The Initials!

Washington will have to forgive us yokels in the hinterlands for wondering why it is going to so much trouble to save OPA. OPA is beyond saving.

The blow that finished it when it was staggering on the brink of oblivion was delivered by President Harry Truman, who put one foot on the seat of its pants and vetoed it over the edge last June 29.

OPA, as a going institution, already had been ruined by Mr. Truman's decision to lift wage controls and his predecessor's policy of boosting prices by inflating the money supply. What was left was being enforced chiefly in the breach. Price control was a mockery, and profit control—which had become OPA's secret weapon—was holding back production. Even profit controllers knew that and wished they could do something about it, though not at the expense of what they were doing.

Mr. Truman took them out of their dilemma. He took everybody out of a dilemma. He booted price and profit control into oblivion by vetoing an attempt to give OPA a short-term lease on a severely restricted life. The fact he didn't intend to do this is of no consequence. Mrs. O'Leary's cow didn't intend to burn down Chicago when she booted the latrine, but it happened—and Chicago was the better for it.

As we say, yokels in the hinterlands are having trouble understanding what the firemen are saving in Washington. They seem to be going to a lot of trouble to rescue a set of initials.

"We Shall Meet Again"

As the United States spokesmen come home from Paris this time, even sadder and wiser than they were on previous homecomings, there is a new public opinion about the difficulties peacemaking has encountered.

It is an opinion that the function of our statesmanship in the future must be to make the best of a bad situation. Previously, public opinion held that the situation itself could be altered—changed somehow for the better.

To that end, the United States had carried over into the peacemaking a policy of compliance and appeasement practiced for Russia's benefit during the war. It's aim, as developed under President Roosevelt, was to break down Russian suspicion of American motives and objectives.

ernment of combining with Britain to show hostility toward Russia. It has denied the possibility of reaching that condition of mutual confidence which was the wartime hope of our government.

The question is whether or not this is a certain indication that relations with the Soviet Union will continue to grow worse. Perhaps the answer is implicit in Foreign Minister Bevin's comment at the Paris meeting of foreign ministers adjourned: "We shall meet again at the peace conference."

There has been no real worsening of relations with Russia, only a realization that relations never were based on anything but expediency as far as Russia was concerned. Security is no more remote than it was a year ago, or two years ago. But it will continue to be based on the same realities that kept the Allies together during the war.

The Russian government does not like the government of the United States. It does not like the government of Great Britain. The governments of the United States and Great Britain are under no further obligation to pretend they like the government of Russia. As Americans, we continue to feel kindly toward Russians, however, and we have reason to believe most Russians are being grossly misrepresented by the hostility of their government.

The problem of our diplomacy is to make the best of a bad situation in Russian politics, without in any manner abandoning our hope that the Russian political situation may be improved.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, July 16

The auguries for this day are exceptionally promising for all sorts of growth, expansion, productivity and many forms of gratification and happiness. This in finances, business, public professions and stressing good fortune, family, social and affectional affiliations and interests.

Very decisive and possibly unexpected change is involved, with travel, new adventures and romance. Keep free from jeopardizing such high promise and long range gains through flashy, obscure or improper perspectives.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of exceptional and unexpected progress, growth, expansion, gain and far-reaching benefits and opportunities, in which both business and private affiliations are due for gratification, happiness and fulfilled ambitions or aspirations.

Work with daring, skill, ingenuity and sound purpose to this end, but be sure to keep proper perspective on all developments, shunning snap judgments or beclouded issues.

A child born on this day will have exceptional talents and equipment for an important, productive and happy career, with much personal gratification, possibly romantic adventure.

Various Types of Anemia

By HERMAN N. RUNDESEN, M.D.
IN ALL its complex mechanism, the body has no harder workers than its oxygen-carriers, the tiny red cells of the blood.

Like microscopic beasts of burden, they move endlessly about their work of purification, carrying oxygen from the lungs to remotest tissues and staggering back under equally heavy loads of carbon dioxide waste.

Because the body is large and the red blood cell all but infinitesimal, millions upon teeming millions are required for this work. The power of these red cells to grab, hold and carry oxygen lies in their hemoglobin or red coloring matter. This is their strength and when it is reduced, the cells lose their potency.

Oxygen Power Reduced

Thus, it is apparent that the oxygen-carrying power of the blood may be reduced either by actual loss of a large number of red cells, as in bleeding, or to a lessening of their hemoglobin content due to interference with iron in the diet.

Whatever its cause, this condition is called anemia and usually the most important part of its treatment consists in giving some iron-containing preparation.

Practically all of the body tissues contain some iron, although the liver, the spleen and the bone marrow supply most iron for the formation of red blood cells than do others. Sometimes anemia develops because an abnormal condition of the bone marrow prevents proper utilization of iron.

More often, however, it is due directly to iron deficiency. One type is the hypochromic nutritional anemia of infancy and childhood. If a baby is born before the normal time, it will, in all likelihood, not have the normal quantity of iron stored in its tissues.

Rapid growth increases the need for iron, so that even those babies who start out with an adequate supply, need more in the diet. So does the growing child. An infant who receives only milk will not get enough iron. Thus a faulty diet may contribute to anemia in babies and little children.

A second type is called chronic hemorrhagic anemia, which merely means that anemia has occurred from continued bleeding from some source. Obviously, the treatment is to find the source of the bleeding and to eliminate it. The giving of some iron-containing preparation will, of course, aid in blood replacement.

A third type is called achlorhydric, which means lack of acid in the stomach. This type occurs most often in women. In this condition the anemia results from failure to absorb or take up enough iron from the food eaten, because of lack of acid in the stomach.

A fourth type is called hypochromic anemia of pregnancy. During the child-bearing time the mother-to-be must not only have sufficient iron to supply her own needs, but also enough for the baby. A faulty diet and achlorhydria are contributing factors for the development of this condition.

When iron is necessary, it can be satisfactorily administered in practically all cases by mouth, in the form of tablets or a liquid preparation. The liquid preparations are as a rule more satisfactory for children.

It must be remembered that alkaline substances, such as baking soda, may interfere with the absorption of iron. Hence, in anemia the taking of such preparations should be avoided, if possible.

The doctor will decide what type of anemia is present, and what treatment should be employed for it, particularly the type of iron preparation to use.

Billion Dollar WHEELS

Farm wheels like these, turning to feed America and hungry nations, are truly billion dollar wheels. In Ohio alone, farms have a seven hundred million dollar share in America's farm production, which last year yielded a gross income of twenty billion dollars to the nation's farms. We recognize how vital telephone service is to you now in accomplishing your part of this big job. That's why we are making an especially great effort to furnish adequate rural telephone service to every farm in our area, in the shortest possible time.

Evidences of our progress are the 9500 new rural telephones installed this year; almost four times the number connected during the same period in 1945. This is typical of the way we are working to provide telephone service for Ohio's farms.

Japan's Progress Favorable To 'Mac'

(By Associated Press)
TOKYO, July 15.—General MacArthur today applauded Japan's progress under the occupation, but declared that the country was not yet ready for an independent press.

In the latest of his periodic reports on the occupation, the supreme commander cited the formation of the government of Shigeru Yoshida on May 20 as another "step toward the development of a normal and healthy parliamentary system." It was done openly and by democratic methods.

Negotiations were no longer regarded as secret conversations of the "inner circle," but were carried on in the open, and the benefit of the Japanese press, the report said.

Condition Generally Good
Relations between Allied personnel and civilians continued on the whole satisfactory, with a low rate of unemployment against the occupation forces.

A coal shortage continued to impede all heavy industries. Twenty thousand new houses were being built monthly, with 250,000 to be completed by the end of the year.

Government surveys indicated that more than half the jobs were not being sought work because they felt they could not stand regular employment on a low-calorie diet.

THE COATING THAT'S KILLING AMERICA'S PESTS

Made by SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

After application, PESTROY DDT particles rise to top of coating, form crystalline film. This DDT film kills insects that touch it. DDT, absorbed through nerves in bug's feet, causes paralysis—brings sure death to flies, ants, mosquitoes, roaches, moths, silverfish, many other insect pests. And PESTROY DDT keeps killing, day after day. A new type of synthetic resin binds PESTROY to any surface, prevents brushing off, blowing away.

"JOB DIVIDENDS" at General Electric

For the year 1945, $35,000,000 in addition to wages was spent by General Electric in extra benefits for employees

It isn't a new thing for General Electric to put more money into pay envelopes for its employees.

"Job dividends"—these extras that G-E employees get in addition to wages—have a sound business reason. To be successful, a company must be efficient. A man with fewer worries can produce more efficiently, which makes further benefits possible.

Profit-sharing plans, relief and loan plans began over 14 years ago at General Electric. Life insurance for employees, cash for suggestions began over 20 years ago. Pension plans were started 33 years ago. And vacations with pay began 53 years ago.

Every employee has a stake in the future of General Electric. For out of its success—and only out of success—can come further advances in living standards. That is the aim of General Electric, not alone for its employees, but for the public, who gain by new and better products, continuously improved.

Home-made dark breads—nourishing wheat-savers.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Try to locate flours and cereal other than wheat for breadmaking. You will probably find rye flour and buckwheat flour. You may find barley flour, which, along with some white flour, makes a delicious loaf.

But remember that potato and corn flours are better as thickeners for gravies, sauces, and puddings than as substitutes for wheat flour in breadmaking.

Be sure to carry home a box of cornmeal or one of rolled oats. Last but not least, don't forget a cake or two of yeast. Then you are all set for breadmaking.

Note: Dark breads are more coarsely grained than a simple white bread, and they don't rise as high; but their rich flavor more than compensates for these faults.

Barley and Oat Bread

(Note: Put a whole package of rolled oats through the grinder; then it will be ready for bread, biscuits, or muffins at a minute's notice. The ground oats require less of the precious white flour to make a good dough.)

2 tablespoons molasses, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine, 1 cup milk, scalded, 1 cake yeast, 1 cup warm water, 2 cups rolled oats, ground, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups barley flour, 1/4 to 1/2 cup white flour.

Measure molasses and margarine into the scalded milk. Cool to lukewarm. Crumble yeast into the warm (never hot) water; when softened, add to the lukewarm milk. Mix. Pour over the rolled oats. Add salt. Mix well. Add barley flour; mix.

Turn into well-greased mixing bowl; grease top of dough. Cover and set in warm (not hot) place to rise to double its bulk. Add white flour sufficient to make a dough that can be handled (this should be a moist, almost sticky, dough).

Knead until dough is light and spongy. Divide into halves; shape into 2 small loaves. Place in 2 small, well-greased loaf tins. Again set in warm (not hot) place to rise to double its bulk. (A pan of lukewarm water makes an excellent means of maintaining warm temperature for bread rising.)

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake an additional 25 to 30 minutes.

Green Hill School Reunion Is Enjoyed

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Mounts of E. Fourth st. attended the 19th annual reunion of teachers and pupils of the Green Hill school, near Kensington, Sunday.

Mr. Mounts was the oldest teacher in attendance. He taught the first term in this school building after its completion 53 years ago. Four pupils, Charles, John and Frank Anthony of Alliance, and Chalmers Crawford of Canton, who were in school that term, were at the reunion.

Mr. Mounts gave a talk, relating interesting incidents during the period he taught this school. Some of the pupils paid tribute to Mounts' work.

Mounts taught his first term of school at Wild Duck in this same district. Miss Alice Wickersham of East Rochester, who attended that term, was at the reunion.

A picnic dinner was enjoyed and plans made to hold the 1947 reunion at the same place on the second Sunday in July.

Miss Mary Patsy Steffel of E. Ninth st., and Miss Marjorie Shallenberg of the Pidgeon rd., have gone to Washington, D. C., to visit Comdr. and Mrs. Lowell Shallenberg and daughter, Judith.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Krepps of E. Fifth st. have returned home after visiting relatives in Indiana and Illinois for the past week.

MINES IN COUNTY HAVE HIGH OUTPUT

Twenty-five Columbiana Pits Yielded 597,992 Tons In 1945

Twenty-five coal mines in Columbiana county produced 597,992 tons valued at $1,793,420 during 1945, according to the annual coal and quarry report for Ohio.

Eight mines in Mahoning county turned out 178,054 tons of coal worth $517,487, while other eastern Ohio counties showed:

Jefferson county, 90 mines, 5,481,885 tons, $14,098,407; Tuscarawas county, 74 mines, 1,608,638 tons, $4,081,173; Belmont county, 53 mines, 710,947 tons, $2,065,544; Stark county, 13 mines, 106,359 tons and $269,101; Harrison county, 25 mines, 608,764 tons, $14,384,608.

Reports also showed that Tuscarawas county ranked first in the production of fire clay, 446,027 tons, Columbiana county second with 26,237 tons and Mahoning county third with 152,112 tons.

Mahoning county ranked sixth among the 88 counties in production of limestone.

Total tonnage was 923,127 with 680,737 going into furnace flux and 242,390 into road stone. Mahoning county's road stone production was the third highest in the state. It ranked 11th in agricultural limestone with 30,723 tons.

Portage county ranked first in the sandstone classification, producing 391,880 tons of silica sand.

The swivel chair was invented four centuries ago.

If You Can Push A Button, You'll Be Your Own Pilot In Future Air Taxi

It's How You'll Fly Tomorrow, Experts Predict

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

This is the way you are going to fly tomorrow, aeronautical engineering experts say:

Suppose you live in New York and want to fly to Kalamazoo, Mich., within an hour. You call the airport, tell them to have a flying taxi ready, and tell them where you want to go.

When you get to the airport, there's your plane at the end of the runway, warming up. There's no air taxi driver. Instead there's a signal light and a push-button.

And after you're aboard your air taxi, the signal light flashes to tell you that you can take off, so you push the button and relax to read a paper or watch the countryside.

It will be like riding in an apartment house self-service elevator. Once you've pushed the button, the plane automatically takes off, pulls up the landing gear, and heads for Kalamazoo.

If a storm blows you off course, the signal light will tell you to work the push-button again to get back on the beam. You'll land at Kalamazoo, without having touched a control, all you'll have done is push buttons.

NOT A DREAM
Don't start writing this off as a fantastic dream. For with different destinations substituted, this push-button flying is exactly what the Army Air Forces have been doing for several weeks at the All-Weather Flying Center at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

The flight plan of the push-button planes is cranked into a series of gadgets before you take off. This mechanical brain, is known as the "automatic flight controller."

Pushing the button starts everything. The plane takes off, climbs to the desired altitude, flies straight to the destination, lands, and then stops before overrunning the land strip. The landing gear and flaps automatically retract after taking off; the radio tunes in on the proper beam; navigational errors are automatically corrected; when you approach the landing field, the landing gear and flaps drop into proper position, and when you set down on the strip, the brakes are gently but firmly applied.

A radio beam does the guiding. The automatic flight controller just follows the beam into the desired airport.

Push-button control board of an Army C-54 is demonstrated by Maj. Paul R. Biggers at Wright field. After pre-determined factors such as distance, direction, and altitude are registered on control board, a push of one button sets off chain of mechanical functions of flight from take-off to landing without any manual control by those aboard.

NEEDS REFINEMENT

Air Force officials say there still are many refinements to be made on the automatic flight controller before the general public sees its fool-proof use. But they call it "the most significant development in flight engineering" since the war.

And it is only one of the many significant advances in aviation the Air Forces have made since World War II ended. The Air Force took the hood of secrecy off the "automatic flight controller" at a recent meeting of the nation's aviation writers, they added several details on other developments that show what can be expected during the next ten years. But most of the other developments were off the record.

One of the goals of the Air Force engineers is to develop something that will eliminate the weather hazards in flying, military, commercial and private. The push button pilot is a step in that direction.

On the basis of the Air Forces show, it is apparent that jet and rocket engines soon will replace the old gasoline driven planes. Engineers believe that jet-engined passenger planes will cruise at 500 miles an hour against the 300 for air transports today.

The plane of the future probably will have wings with a definite swept-back design; engineers have found these more efficient at the extremely high speeds jet-propulsion will make possible. And the flying-wing, lately dubbed "flap-jack" is even more efficient. Maybe that flying taxi for your future trip to Kalamazoo will be a push-button "flap-jack."

Heavy Ship

Latest calculations of scientists show that a rocket ship, to reach the moon and return safely to the earth, would require a load of 20-600 tons of fuel and would weigh not less than 40,000 tons.

*Your Safety and Comfort — *Your Present Car Investment

TO all OUR FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS — this is the most urgent and sincere advice we can give you today.

"Keep Your Present Car in Top Condition" Of course we want to put you in a new Dodge as quickly as we can. But we simply can't do that to your own best advantage if you run down the condition of your present car.

Why? Because the wait may be long — your present car is old and yet you need all the driving safety and comfort you can get. Also, because you definitely "profit" or "lose" by the "condition" of your present car when you finally turn it in.

So, out of our experience and knowledge of today's conditions we again say to you —

Get Our Double Protection—Today

Bring in your car. Let us give it the necessary inspection and expert care. Then you'll have peace of mind—and you'll be money ahead.

Your New Dodge will be a rich reward for waiting. With Double Protection now—while you're waiting—you gain in every way.

New Liquor Inspectors To Aid Ohio Department

COLUMBUS, July 15.—The state liquor department announced today the hiring of the first of about 15 liquor inspectors expected to be added to its staff this month.

He is Velle E. Fresh, 27, of Cleveland, a World war II Army captain.

The department said selection of the other inspectors "is about completed." The additions were expected to increase the inspection staff to its previous strength of 130 or more, department spokesmen said.

While You're Waiting we give you ...

Double Protection

*Your Safety and Comfort — *Your Present Car Investment

TO all OUR FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS — this is the most urgent and sincere advice we can give you today.

"Keep Your Present Car in Top Condition" Of course we want to put you in a new Dodge as quickly as we can. But we simply can't do that to your own best advantage if you run down the condition of your present car.

Why? Because the wait may be long — your present car is old and yet you need all the driving safety and comfort you can get. Also, because you definitely "profit" or "lose" by the "condition" of your present car when you finally turn it in.

So, out of our experience and knowledge of today's conditions we again say to you —

Get Our Double Protection — Today

Bring in your car. Let us give it the necessary inspection and expert care. Then you'll have peace of mind — and you'll be money ahead.

Your New Dodge will be a rich reward for waiting. With Double Protection now — while you're waiting — you gain in every way.

Red Sox Stretch Lead To 11 Games, Upset Indians Twice

WILLIAMS GOES WILD IN SUNDAY HOME RUN SPREE

Collects Five Hits In Seven Trips; Three Homers Are Included

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Boston's top box office draw is Ted Williams of the pennant-bound Boston Red Sox—the logical heir to Babe Ruth's throne.

Whether the willowy ex-Marine hits three home runs in one game as he did yesterday against Cleveland, or strikes out with the bases loaded before a Yankee stadium rout, he reeks with that vague substance called "color."

Failure of Joe DiMaggio to hit his pre-war stride left Bobby Feller of Cleveland as Williams' chief rival as a turnstile magnet. But Rapid Robert at best can work only every fourth day and Teddy is slugging every afternoon.

When Bernardo Pasquel of the Mexican league offered Williams more than $100,000 a year to "jump" organized ball, he knew what he was doing. The bovine star from San Diego is box office, in big letters. Of all present players in the game, only Williams and Feller have a chance to reach Ruth's fabulous salary figures.

Williams' performance yesterday should earn him several points on next year's contract. His one-man show enabled Boston to stretch its lead to 11 full games by sweeping a doubleheader from Cleveland, 11-10 and 6-4. Teddy drove in eight runs with three homers and a single in the opener and doubled down the left field line in the second tilt despite Manager Lou Boudreau's novel defense.

Boudreau moved all his infielders into the hole between first and second and shifted his center fielder into right field in an attempt to stop the lefthanded power hitter. They got him out once but he walked twice and doubled the other time.

As a result of the big day, Williams' batting average soared to .353, only four points behind the leader, Mickey Vernon of Washington. Twenty-six home runs, 82 runs batted in and 89 runs scored are other accomplishments of the lank Californian.

While Williams was joining the long list of players who have hit three homers in a game, Boudreau was tying a record held by 20 players by hitting four doubles in one contest. The Cleveland pilot also smashed a home run for the losing cause.

The New York Yankees fell back two games as they bowed twice to Detroit. After Hal Newhouser had hung up his 17th victory on a three-hit, 5-1 score, Stubby Overmire earned his first decision of the season, 6-3, before a Yankee stadium throng of 61,940 fans.

St. Louis applied the tightener to the National chase by dumping Brooklyn twice. The double loss reduced the Dodgers' margin to 2½ games.

was the big gun in the opener, driving in four runs with a pair of singles and a homer in the 5-3 triumph. Stan Musial's round tripper on the first pitch in the 12th broke up the nightcap with a 2-1 Cardinal win for Murry Dickson over Vic Lombardi.

The Brooks also lost the services of Second Baseman Eddie Stanky who was carried from the field after a collision with Slaughter in the opener.

Chicago closed in on the Durocher gang, too, knocking over New York 7-4. Boston clung to a first division berth by one percentage point when it divided a pair with Pittsburgh. After Warren Spahn had curved his way to a 4-1 nod over Fritz Ostermuller, Rip Sewell got the Bucs an even break with a seven-hit effort, 5-2.

Complete Surveys Of Deer Licks

A survey of deer salt licks on the Roosevelt game preserve, Shawnee State forest and adjacent lands in Adams and Scioto counties has been completed by Game Management Agent James McBride.

Forty licks were inspected and photographed preparatory to their improvement. Improvements to be made to licks being used will include removal of leaves, branches and other debris and increasing their water holding capacity. It is also planned to have samples of water from each lick analyzed to determine the relationship between the salinity of the water and extent of use by deer.

According to McBride, 13 of the licks studied were being used extensively and an additional 13 used slightly. The remaining 14 showed no evidence of use.

Oscar Moore, a native of the section, rendered invaluable assistance in locating many of the licks.

Miller Leads League 3rd Straight Week; Jaycee 10 Climbs In Team Batting Race

Bob Miller, hard hitting third sacker for the Sinclair Oilers, retained the American league individual batting leadership for the third straight week, after a see-saw battle with Pat Mancuso of Leetonia, as he completed the week with an even 500 average.

The Jaycees climbed from third to second place in the team batting race, increasing their percentage 12 points for an average of 289. Four points ahead is the leading Ohio Grill, who managed to retain its lead although dropping three points to 293.

The only other notable change found Mullins climbing to a third place tie with Leetonia, who dropped from second. They are deadlocked with 273 averages. The Eagles boosted their total to 247, to hold down the fifth slot.

The gap between the percent ages of Miller and Mancuso narrowed the past week, as Miller dropped from 524 to 500 and Mancuso jumped six points to 480. Miller garnered two hits in five trips to the plate and Mancuso collected three bingles in six times at bat.

A stellar performance in batting was turned in by Steve Zatk, Mullins shortstop, who cracked out five hits in eight trips, to climb from 12th place to third. His 429 mark is 51 points short of Mancuso.

John McQuiston, hurler for the Jaycees, and John Pukalski, Mullins gardener, had big weeks, as they vaulted to fourth and eighth places respectively. McQuiston is now clubbing 414 and Pukalski 365.

Leader in the total hit department for the season is Zatk, with 18 knocks in 42 trips to the plate. There was no change in the home run race, as these leaders, Harold Close of the Electric Furnace, and Bob Miller, failed to connect for circuit blows.

Of the league's 39 top hitters listed, Mullins and the Ohio Grill each placed six. The Jaycees and the Eagles were runners-up, with five men each in the select circle.

An interesting note is that the Jaycees and Mullins are the first teams in the loop to have reached the 100 mark in total hits.

The games this week should provide some changes in the standings, especially in the individual department, with Zatk's consistent hitting threatening to overtake Miller and Mancuso for the league lead.

Averages this week are based on players who have competed in three quarters of their teams games and who are hitting at least .250.

National league averages will be published next.

WILLIAMS GOES WILD IN SUNDAY HOME RUN SPREE

Collects Five Hits In Seven Trips; Three Homers Are Included

By JACK HAND

Red Sox top box office draw in Boston Red Sox—the logical heir to Babe Ruth's throne.

Whether the willowy ex-Marine hits three home runs in one game, as he did yesterday against Cleveland, or strikes out with the bases loaded before a Yankee stadium sellout, he reeks with that vague substance called "color."

Failure of Joe DiMaggio to hit his pre-war stride left Bobby Feller of Cleveland as Williams' chief rival as a strutting magnet. But Rapid Robert at best can work only every fourth day and Teddy is slugging every afternoon.

His one-man show enabled Boston to stretch its lead to 11 full games by sweeping a doubleheader from Cleveland, 11-10 and 6-4. Teddy drove in eight runs with three homers and a single in the opener and doubled down the left field line in the second tilt despite Manager Lou Boudreau's novel defense.

Boudreau moved all his infielders into the hole between first and second and shifted his center fielder into right field in an attempt to stop the left-handed power hitter. They got him out once but he walked twice and doubled the other time.

As a result of the big day, Williams' batting average soared to .353, only four points behind the leader, Mickey Vernon of Washington. Twenty-six home runs, 82 runs batted in and 89 runs scored are other accomplishments of the lank Californian.

While Williams was joining the long list of players who have hit three homers in a game, Boudreau was tying a record, held by 20 players, by hitting four doubles in one contest. The Cleveland pilot also smashed a home run for the losing cause.

The New York Yankees fell back two games as they bowed twice to Detroit. After Hal Newhouse had hung up his 17th victory on a three-hit, 5-1 score, Stubby Oyler earned his first decision of the season, 6-3, before a Yankee stadium throng of 61,940 fans.

Improvements to be made to licks being used will include removal of leaves, branches and other debris and increasing their water holding capacity. It is also planned to have samples of water from each lick analyzed to determine the relationship between the salinity of the water and extent of use by deer.

According to McBride, 13 of the licks studied were being used extensively and an additional 13 used slightly. The remaining 14 showed no evidence of use.

Oscar Moore, a native of the section, rendered invaluable assistance in locating many of the licks.

Miller Leads League 3rd Straight Week; Jaycee 10 Climbs In Team Batting Race

Bob Miller, hard hitting third sacker for the Sinclair Oilers, retained the American league individual batting leadership for the third straight week, after a see-saw battle with Pat Mancuso of Leontia, as he completed the week with an even 500 average.

The Jaycees climbed from third to second place in the team batting race, increasing their percentage 12 points for an average of 289. Four points ahead is the leading Ohio Grill, who managed to retain its lead, although dropping three points to 293.

The only other notable change found Mullins climbing to a third place tie with Leontia, who dropped from second. They are deadlocked with 272 averages. The Eagles boosted their total to 247, to hold down the fifth slot.

The gap between the percentages of Miller and Mancuso narrowed the past week, as Miller dropped from 534 to 500 and Mancuso jumped six points to 489. Miller garnered two hits in five trips to the plate and Mancuso collected three bingles in six times at bat.

A stellar performance in batting was turned in by Steve Zarko, Mullins shortstop, who cracked out five hits in eight trips, to climb from 12th place to third. His 429 mark is 51 points short of Mancuso.

John McQuiston, hurler for the Jaycees, and John Pukalski, Mullins gardener, had big weeks as they vaulted to fourth and eighth places respectively. McQuiston is now clubbing 414 and Pukalski 385. Leader in the total hit department for the season is Zarko, with 18 knocks in 42 trips to the plate.

There was no change in the home run race, as these leaders, Harold Close of the Electric Furnace, and Bob Miller, failed to connect for circuit blows.

Of the league's 39 top hitters listed, Mullins and the Ohio Grill each placed six. The Jaycees and the Eagles were runners-up, with five men each in the select circle.

An interesting note is that the Jaycees and Mullins are the first teams in the loop to have reached the 100 mark in total hits.

The games this week should provide some changes in the standings, especially in the individual department, with Zarko's consistent hitting threatening to overtake Miller and Mancuso for the league lead.

Averages this week are based on players who have competed in three quarters of their teams games and who are hitting at least 250.

National league averages will be published next.

A GOOD ONE-MAN FARM PRICED TO SELL!

Eighty acres located on Georgetown Road about six miles from Salem in very good farming neighborhood. Approximately 45 acres under cultivation; balance in good pasture watered by flowing springs and permanent stream. The soil on this farm is in a high state of cultivation and is very suitable for tractor farming. Good 8-room house with electricity, furnace, inside toilet and well water supplied by electric pump. Very good bank barn under slate with stanchions for 16 cows, drinking cups in barn. Other buildings include good silo 12x40, wagon shed, garage, milk house and chicken house.

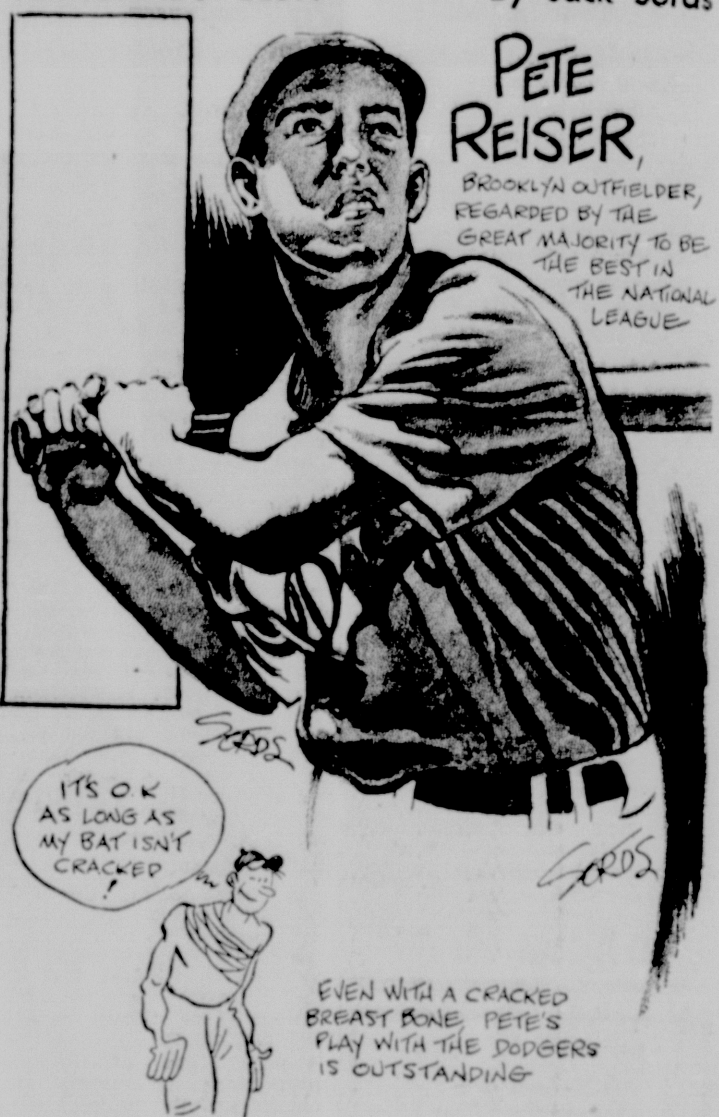

This farm is occupied by the owner who can give possession in very short time. Good farms like this are becoming increasingly difficult to list under present conditions and this one is well worth the inspection of any sincere buyer. Priced to sell at $19,900.

If you have a farm of any size you want to sell, get in touch with me at once.

declared, "but it is certain that he had guilty knowledge. The secretary of his party for Transylvania (Elie Lazar, who is under arrest) is the chief accomplice in the opposition. The Liberal party (Romania's No. 2 opposition party) is not involved."

Plan To Split Opposition
Maniu, professing friendship for Russia, weighted the scales against himself and his party when he declared at the Antonescu trial that the now Russian-held provinces of Bukovina and Bessarabia "are and were Romanian."

Groza's statement that the Liberal party is not involved in the "plot" coincides with reports that the government has decided to attempt to split the opposition by favoring the Liberals and concentrating on the Peasants.

Concerning the plan for elections by mid-September, two recent U. S. and British notes have urged speedy elections to fulfill the Moscow accord.

The Groza government's answer maintained that Romania could not be expected to consider protests made by only one or two of the three great power signatories to the Moscow accord.

The government said that Russia, as well as the United States and Britain, was a signatory, and that as the accord was a triple one protests would have to be likewise.

Many Firms Plan 'Hold Line' Prices

CLEVELAND, July 15—The magazine Steel said today that a survey of nearly 300 companies making products ranging from bolts and nuts to electric toasters, automobiles and locomotives, showed they planned to hold the line on prices of most products in the weeks immediately ahead, regardless of what congress does about controls.

The survey, the magazine declared, furnished "an excellent cross-section of the metalworking industry," and showed that 55 per cent of the firms planned to make no price boosts within the next 60 days, 28 per cent planned to raise prices less than 10 percent, and 17 per cent planned hikes of between 10 and 25 per cent.

In answer to a question "do you favor reenactment of industrial price control in some form until supply and demand are in closer balance?" 71 per cent opposed such controls and 29 per cent favored reenactment.

On the query "when do you think output of your products will be in balance with demand?" 33 per cent decided within six months, 35 per cent within a year, 18 per cent within 18 months and 14 per cent within two years. Several firms reported a balance had already been reached.

"Comments by various company executives," Steel said, "regarding their pricing policies in a free market indicate they will keep prices as low as possible."

Atomic Rays Take Toll Of Bikini Animals

KWAJALEIN, July 15—Atomic bomb violence at Bikini was considerably greater than at first pictured, it was intimated today by an officer who reported that animals which withstood the concussion of the blast now are "dying like flies."

The officer, who visited the highly secret animal ship Burleson, said the animals may appear healthy and have a normal blood count one day and just "drop off the next day."

Amazing Pig 311, fished from the waters of the lagoon after the blast, is still alive, an officer reported. He said, however, he understood the pig was beginning to show signs of radiation damage, and was being given penicillin and other treatments.

Driver Held After Man On Running Board Dies
WASHINGTON, Pa., July 15—David Handa, 20-year-old Cleveland, was held on a manslaughter charge today after a former army lieutenant was crushed to death on the running board of Handa's automobile, Deputy Coroner G. E. McNary reported.

The auto's crash into a utility pole, occurring during the early morning hours yesterday, killed Bernard P. Repole, 29.

Constable Mike Robb said Handa failed to heed efforts to flag him down and that Repole accompanied him off on an 18-mile chase after the speeding auto. He said, Repole leaped onto the running board as Handa stepped for a traffic light. The Cleveland tried to throw him off by sideswiping another auto then crashed in the pole, crushing Repole, the constable reported.

Robb said Handa claimed he did not stop because he "thought it was a holdup."

A coroner's inquest is scheduled tomorrow.
